

PhD Positions at the Vienna International School of Earth and Space Sciences

THE BIG PICTURE @ VISESS

Interested in PhD research on the Cosmos, Earth or Anthroposphere?

Apply until November 15th
to VISESS
at the University of Vienna!

The Vienna International School of Earth and Space Sciences (VISESS) is soliciting applications for PhD positions within the Faculty of Earth Sciences, Geography and Astronomy at the University of Vienna.

As humanity is facing grand challenges such as climate change and resource depletion, this new doctoral school is addressing these and other challenges through interdisciplinary and trans-disciplinary academic research connecting the COSMOS with planet EARTH, its environment and the ANTHROPOSPHERE. We aim our students to become world-leading experts in either of these three branches while also confidently communicate and contribute across all three branches. We want our school to become a central place in the heart of Europe for training and as a resource of knowledge about our place in space and time. For further information see:

<https://visess.univie.ac.at>

Interested students can apply until 15 November 2020 via:

<https://visess.univie.ac.at/how-to-apply/>

The University pursues a non-discriminatory employment policy and values equal opportunities, as well as diversity. The University lays special emphasis on increasing the number of women in senior and in academic positions. Given equal qualifications, preference will be given to female applicants. See also:

<http://diversity.univie.ac.at/>

Contact: Martina Egger via admin.visess@univie.ac.at

